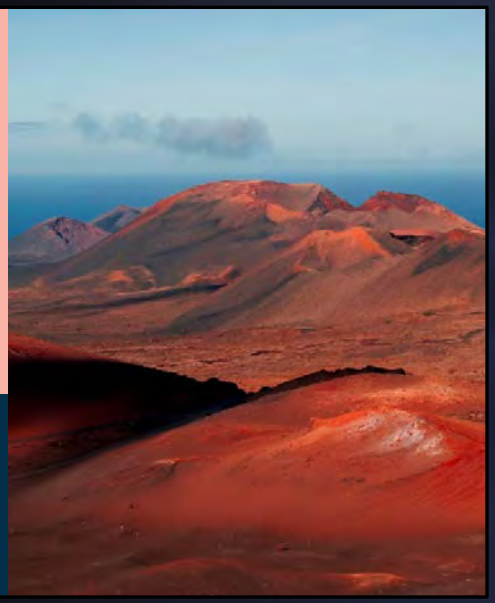
*Why Lanzarote?

Considered one of the world's best year-round yachting destinations, Lanzarote is blessed with a great range of sailing conditions with an enviably comfortable climate and consistent, refreshing breeze.

Canarian island life is appreciated for its reassuringly open, friendly and European culture and Lanzarote is currently being boosted by a considerable surge in interest from young active holiday-makers drawn to the island's world-class sporting scene. This ensures a reliable network of sport support services, for professional athletes and amateur sportspeople alike.

A UNESCO Biosphere Reserve since 1993, Lanzarote is famous for its distinct volcanic landscape which contrasts dramatically with the unique white, modernist architecture influenced by the island's visionary artist "son", César Manrique.



"Puerto Calero was chosen this year for the annual Royal Swedish Yacht Club (KSSS) winter escape. We were greeted by superb weather, luxury accommodation, fantastic J80 racing and were able to make time to enjoy some interesting activities around this fascinating island."

Mats Olsson – Communications manager for the Royal Swedish yacht club.

- In the most recent edition, winners Groupama Sailing Team spent winter training in Lanzarote. Between Groupama, Puma and Telefónica, they represented half of the fleet and achieved three of the top four results.

*European Sports Destination

Increasingly Lanzarote is gaining a reputation as a major European Sports Destination, giving athletes and passionate amateur sportspeople alike the opportunity to train throughout the year.

Why not take the opportunity to try your hand at a new sport? A popular choice as championship host across an impressive range of disciplines, Lanzarote offers quality coaching and material hire in surfing, kitesurfing, windsurfing, stand-up paddle, kayaking, sailing, and much more….

* Activities for your friends and family

Not for nothing are the Canaries a popular tourist destination. Over 40 years of sustained visitors has established a strong and service-focused culture. Lanzarote is however special; the dedicated zeal and responsible foresight of César Manrique protected the island from the often destructive effects of mass tourism, preserving and celebrating Lanzarote's extraordinary landscape as can be seen in the island's dramatic visitor centres and clean, aesthetic look.

There is consequently much to do on the island, apart from the many sporting options, don't miss:

- Timanfaya National Park – either try the official bus route or the free guided walks.
- Jameos del Agua & Cueva de los Verdes – beautifully enhanced lava caverns.
- Wine tasting. Ingenious traditional methods produce some delicious vintages; try visiting El Grifo museum.
- Beaches galores. Soak up the sun, swim and snorkel.
- Lunch in El Golfo. With arguably the best sea views on the island, savour local fish and tapas.
- La Graciosa – this small northern islet in one of Europe's largest marine reserves is simple and charming.
- Old forts and castles. A history of exposure to maurauders has left its mark.
- The beautiful light here is a magnet for artists. Try the MIAC in Arrecife and various small galleries

* Comments from race organisers and sailors

"Puerto Calero's location close to Europe on the Northern edge of the trade winds gives Lanzarote reliable conditions year round, easy access from Europe, reasonable costs for boats and crew, and English language schools for kids. My team, Puma Ocean Racing, didn't lose a single day of training in two months to bad weather. All in all, it's the perfect waypoint on the way to the starting line in Alicante*.*

Beyond the logistical advantages, the clincher is the incredible welcome and passion for racing that the Calero family has always offered. Not only Volvo Ocean Race teams, but IMS, TP 52, RC 44 and J80 racers have enjoyed the Caleros' hospitality on and off the water.

The new marina at Arrecife will provide enough space for the entire VOR fleet to train out of Lanzarote."

ROBERT HOPKINS - PUMA OCEAN RACING

"For training or regattas, Puerto Calero should be at the top of anyone's list. A quality marina with all the facilities in one of the world's great sailing areas. Permanent breeze, clean air, clean water, great climate all year long."

ROB WEILAND - TP52 CLASS MANAGER

"One of Puerto Calero's strongest points is certainly the level of welcome and quality of their management team. Event organisation both on the water and shore-side poses no problem since they are well-accustomed to racing. We have enjoyed the most attractive racing conditions in Puerto Calero together with the best parties and gala dinners of the whole circuit. I can only recommend Puerto Calero as a destination for a stopover or international regatta."

HUBERT DETRY -RC44 CLASS EVENTS COORDINATOR

"Lanzarote has given us amazing stability in respect of winds and waves. The great Azores high being squeezed by the African coast gives us perfect trade wind conditions for offshore sailing. The different effects of the land masses around the Canary Islands also give the team a preview of what we will experience during the race. The time saved thanks to the short distance of just 100 metres from the dock out to the open ocean is invaluable.

ANDERS LEWANDER

"Lanzarote offers a good service industry and is an ideal spot to train out of for any team involved in offshore sailing. Predictable weather allows a team to make a testing program and stick to it, all leading to a better knowledge of the sails, gear and boat."
